

Bix Beiderbecke

Profession: Musician

Convention Role: Dealer Room Director

Description: Male; age 38; 5'10" tall; 205 pounds; eyes: grey; hair: red / blond. Quote: "Stress is a killer...don't get yourself killed, my friend."

Discussion: Life is a long road, and you do your best to make sure that it's a smooth ride. You are not adverse to getting high, and even though you smoke every day, that doesn't mean you are in bad health. The body and mind are one, and you study the mystical ancient martial arts as a way of keeping in touch with the universe. You keep body and soul together by playing your guitar to appreciative crowds in coffee houses and other low-key venues.

You've loved gaming and comics since you were a kid, and you'd like to make a living at it, but both your comic book store and your game store went bankrupt within six months. But the contacts you made, and your enthusiasm for sci-fi, comics, gaming, anime, and all of it has made you the perfect person to be the Dealer Room Director for Multicon.

Worries: There's a cool, tollerant and laid-back attitude that you attempt to foster in the Dealer Room, but sometimes events threaten your harmonious world. You try to keep trouble to a minimum, because the hotel has made it clear that it simply won't stand for trouble any more.

Roleplaying Notes: You like Furries; you are a mystical person.

These are your opinions of your fellow convention organizers:

Ashton Tate: Ashton is Convention Security, and he takes his job way too seriously. It's too much to expect Multicon guests to toe the line.

Chervil Mancuso: Chervil is a nice little guy. He is Director of Science Fiction, but get this, he's also a paramedic! He needs to loosen up and go with the flow, he stresses way too much.

Circe Nightshade: Circe is Director of LARPS, and decidedly decorative, but she's got an undead vibe that clashes with your aura. She drinks absinthe, which is nasty, but she's a smart girl who likes talking about deep subjects.

Rainmaker Sunshine: Rainmaker is a bone-fide New-Age Priestess and your best friend at Multicon.

She handles the artists in the Art Room, makes sure that everything runs smoothly and that the art gets displayed properly. She can also realign your Chakras.

Tommy Otaku: Tommy is definitely a troubled young man, way too attached to material things. He is the Director of Anime, and since you like Anime too, you've spent time together. Tommy always has cash for stash, so that's a point in his favor.

Travis Cotton: Travis is Director of Gaming, and he's kind of the stern daddy at Multicon. He's pretty much a straight arrow, not into getting high, which is cool. He's a little too attached to his schedules; you think that pick-up games are best, not so restrictive and tied to the clock.

